Material site property lines throughout the Northern Region have not been land-surveyed (confirmed with monumentation) in years and the exact boundaries of almost every site in the region are unknown. This project would provide for a site survey of various essential material sites throughout the region and field staking so corners can be found well into the future. This information is critical for the future development of maintenance and operations (M&O) crushing contracts that serve both federal preventative maintenance projects and M&O's routine maintenance activities.

Project Description/Justification:

This project will also help to resolve existing land ownership disputes with adjacent landowners.

The accurate location and delineation of property boundaries is important for material sites, because most mining plans involve using set-backs from those boundaries to the edge of pit development. Access is more correctly executed and misunderstandings are minimized. The project will help to resolve several existing land ownership disputes with adjacent landowners.

This project contributes to the Department's Mission by reducing injuries, fatalities and property damage, by improving the mobility of people and goods and by increasing private investment.
